STRIKE SUMMARY

Chairman Hooper of the Labor Board announced peace negotiations to end the shopmen's strike were halted by refusal of the railroads to return seniority rights to strikers, although agreement was reached on the four other points at issue.

Railroad executives defended their stand in protecting the seniority of employees who have taken the places of strikers.

E. F. Grable, head of the maintenance of way union, made public a letter from President B. M. Jewell of the shopmen, upholding the maintenance of way men in their decision not to strike.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, called on workmen everywhere to assist the shopmen in their strike.

More than 7,000 clerks on the Chicago & Northwestern road await the result of conferences with rail officials before a walk-out.

"No Probability of Reconciliation."

Chicago, July 19.—Failure of all efforts to bring about the settlement of the country-wide strike of the railway shopmen, was announced in a statement issued tonight by Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the United States Railroad Labor board.

"As there does not seem to be any probability of reconciling the antipathetic views of the carriers and the men on the question at issue, the Labor board and none of its members are now engaged in any further efforts along that line," the statement said.

Railroad executives, through the western presidents' committee on public relations of the Association of Railway Executives, issued a statement tonight corroborating Chairman Hooper's statement that no further peace conferences were being held and that the seniority issue was the principal stumbling block.

Chairman Hooper's statement said that a conference was held last Saturday between B. M. Jewell, head of the shopmen; A. O. Wharton, labor member of the board, and Mr. Hooper, and heads of the seven strike organizations, when Mr. Jewell indicated he would be willing to submit to his committee an agreed program if the carriers concurred in it.

The program, Mr. Hooper's statement said, was as follows:

Mr. Jewell's Program.

"First, that the carriers which had arbitrarily changed the wages and working conditions of the employees represented by said seven organizations, by means of the contract system, in violation of the Railroad Labor board's decisions, should withdraw from this practice. This applied to only a few roads, as the others had heretofore shown their willingness to cancel such contracts. The principal of those that have not yet made such announcement are the Erie and Western Maryland.

"Second, that the authority granted by the transportation act to the carriers and their employees to set up an adjustment board or boards be exercised by the establishment of a national adjustment board, with the entire jurisdiction authorized by said act, namely, the hearing of all disputes except those affecting wages.

"Third, that the employees involved in the strike proceed in conformity with the transportation act in the settlement of the disputed rates and wages, seeking from the Railroad Labor board a rehearing of the recent wage decision and promptly submitting the disputed rules to the adjustment board with the statutory right of appeal to the Labor board.

"Fourth, the carriers to withdraw all suits law suits growing out of the strike.

"Fifth, all men now on strike, those laid off, furloughed or on leave of absence to be returned to work and their former positions, with seniority and other rights unimpaired.

"As a method for securing a conference fully representing the carriers and the employees concerned, it was contemplated that the Railroad Labor board should call a hearing for that purpose."

Executives Consider Program.

Mr. Hooper, discussing the negotiations, said he had submitted the proposition to several railroad executives with the understanding that if a tentative agreement could be reached it was to be submitted to other executives. Mr. Hooper said he understood the program had been laid before a large number of executives.

"My investigation of the attitude of the carriers has convinced me," his statement said, "that no serious obstacle is to be found in any of the items above enumerated, except the fifth."

Mr. Wharton set forth the position of the shop crafts with regard to seniority by asserting that "any settlement of the present controversy which is for its object the restoration of harmonious relations and the efficient operation of shops must take into consideration the restoration of the men involved to their status as employees of date prior to the stoppage of work."

He maintained the great majority of these men are permanently located and are more desirable employees than those now taking their places; that it will be an unusual position if the carriers deny the request of the organizations in this respect, "when by so doing they prevent the possibility of a settlement," that no organization has heretofore been called upon to make such a sacrifice to obtain a settlement, and that "this action on the part of the carriers will place the responsibility of a continuation of the strike with the inevitable consequences resulting therefrom."

RAILROAD AND COAL STRIKES ARE CO-RELATED IN EFFECT

Washington, July 19.—While government interest in the industrial situation continued to be centered today chiefly in the coal strike and particularly in the reaction from President Harding's invitation to governors of coal-producing states that they cooperate with him in the effort to reopen the mines, evidence was not lacking that the coal and railroad strikes were co-related at least in effect.

Official reports received here tonight further details of reduction in coal output, because of inadequate coal supply, with the result, it was said, that production was tending to be more than ever confined to non-union fields. Effect of reduced movement of coal cars was said to be particularly marked in West Virginia districts.

With but two exceptions, the governors who replied to President Harding's telegram today pledged their cooperation and support to the federal administration without qualification. Governor Morgan of North Carolina replied in a decided negative, asserting that so far as he knew there would be no strike troubles in the mining industry of that state and it would be a "vain thing" for him to "invite coal miners to return to work."

After a conference today in which President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor; Chairman Borah of the Senate labor committee; and Senators Walsh, Democrat of Massachusetts, and King, Democrat of Utah, participated, it was announced that "there were no results and no conclusions," but that Mr. Gompers and Senator Borah were "hopeful" of a settlement of the coal and railroad strikes in the due course of time.

Borah Expresses Optimism.

Others attending the conference were Frank Morrison, secretary of the federation, and Edgar Wallace, Washington legislative agent for the mine unions.

"I am very much more hopeful about the outlook than I was before I talked with Mr. Gompers," said Senator Borah as spokesman for all the conferees.

President Gompers declined to make any statement but was quoted by Senator Borah as feeling "very hopeful that matters were going to be adjusted within a reasonable time."

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, faced the government's proposal to guarantee safety of strikebreakers by force with apparent cheerfulness today.

"We have been on strike sixteen weeks," he declared, "we have more men out now than we had in the beginning, here are 600,000 and 700,000 miners standing for the resumption of work only after an interstate agreement and upon the basis of wage scales as they were April 1. They will continue to do so in peaceful and orderly fashion."

Suggestions that miners would have to work sometime to eat brought the rejoinder that "they haven't nearly reached their limit yet."

President Harding is reported as feeling that he made the last possible concession to the miners when offering them the old wage scale and a national arbitration.

Situation in Pennsylvania.

Hazleton, Pa., July 19.—It was learned today from reliable sources that the anthracite operators will not make any effort to reopen the mines. At a recent meeting in Washington, their policy in this matter was outlined and the larger and independent interests will permit the hard coal field situation to remain unchanged.

Altoona, Pa., July 19.—Acceptance of President Harding's proposal to reopen the bituminous coal mines was announced by T. H. Watkins, president of Pennsylvania Coke and Coal corporation, in notices posted to day at all the company's mines in the central Pennsylvania fields.

"We believe that a request of the President is a command," said the statement.

The note added that upon receipt of detailed information from Washington the company will notify its "former employees" what the government expects of the operators and mine workers.

Mr. Watkins left the Central Coal association at the Washington conference, because, it was stated today, the association refused to accept the President's plan for arbitration.

Replies of Governors.

Raleigh, N. C., July 19.—Governor Morrison of North Carolina telegraphed President Harding in effect today that he would not cooperate with the federal government in protecting mines reopened by operators of this state in response to the President's invitation.

The North Carolina governor declared it would be vain for him to invite coal miners to return to work in his state and that he would not do so anyway. He added that he shared the whole policy of national or state intervention in labor disputes unwise.

Wheeling, W. Va., July 19.—Governor Morgan, in his message replying to President Harding's appeal, stated:

"Since the coal strike became effective on April 1, the coal tonnage of this state increased steadily to a point above the normal."

Des Moines, Ia., July 19.—Iowa coal mines will be reopened in line with President Harding's proposals, declared Governor Kendall today.

"No man will be compelled to work but usually no man shall be prevented from working if he desires to do so," a proclamation issued to the mine operators and the mine workers of Iowa by the governor today said.

STRIKE "JUST ABOUT OVER" EASTERN EXECUTIVE STATES

New York, July 19.—Claiming that railroad repair shops are now manned at nearly 60 per cent of normal, John G. Walber, secretary of the bureau of information of eastern railroads, asserted today that as far as the eastern district is concerned, the strike is "just about over."

Roads are running on normal schedule, both passenger and freight, he asserted, and are taking care of all running repairs. "Line" or heavy repairs to locomotives are gradually being resumed, so that all danger of a suspension of traffic has been eliminated by the eleven lines operating into New York, he asserted.

Union leaders today claimed striking shop crafts men were "holding fast," despite the waning prospects of a simultaneous strike of maintenance men.

"We never looked for a strike of the maintenance division," said a statement issued at union headquarters. "We are prepared to fight this thing out alone."

Statements of rail executives that road equipment was being kept at standard were denied by strike leaders, who predicted that locomotives and other rolling stock would soon begin to "show the effect of inefficient work by unskilled strikebreakers." The recruiting of deputy marshals to patrol railway mail trains has been suspended temporarily upon reports of road officials that the 400 or more already on duty will suffice for the present emergency.

Forty employees of the Boat Repair corporation at Jersey City struck because non-union labor was employed by the Jersey Central in its shops there.

INCREASING DISORDERS AS SETTLEMENT FAILS

Boston, July 19.—Seven masked men, heavily armed, got past the guards at the Boston & Maine railroad shops at Concord, N. H., late last night and entering a dormitory where fifty shopmen were sleeping, drove them out of doors, and ordered them out of town, according to a statement issued today. There was shooting and hand-to-hand fighting in which several workmen were beaten, one requiring hospital treatment, says the statement.

At about 11:30 o'clock last evening, the statement said, seven masked men, armed with revolvers, shotguns and rifles, made their way by the guards in the rain and succeeded in gaining entrance to the buildings in which some 50 workmen were sleeping.

"There was shooting and fighting. The sleepers were driven out into the rain without being given time to dress and an attempt was made to drive them out of town. If any of the men fell, or lagged behind, they were clubbed and kicked. At least one of the workers is in the hospital and several others are more or less seriously injured.

"Vigorous steps are being taken by the railroad to locate and criminally prosecute the men who perpetrated this outrage."

Rochester, July 19.—Fred Biehl, superintendent of the ice plant of the New York Central, was attacked by striking shopmen today. It was announced. He was returning from a week at Coldwater and was about to enter his home when the assault occurred. Strike leaders denied their men participated in the affray. The assault was the first sign of disorders here since the walkout began.

ITALIAN CABINET RESIGNS

Premier Facta

(By the Associated Press.)

Rome, July 19.—Premier Facta and his entire cabinet presented their resignations to the king today.

The government was defeated in the chamber on a vote of confidence. After the premier had delivered a speech defending the government's policy, the chamber suspended its sitting to enable the various parties to consult separately on the situation. On resumption of the sitting, a resolution was submitted expressing the opinion that the government had failed to secure domestic peace, which was indispensable to the financial and economic reconstruction of the country. This resolution was adopted by a vote of 288 to 103.

TWO ARRESTED IN VIRGINIA MINE WAR

Farmer and Son Regarded as
"Most Important Witnesses in Clifton Tragedy"

Wellsburg, W. Va., July 19.—R. T. Stout, a farmer, and his son, Chester, who live near the Cliftonville mine where Sheriff H. H. Duval and four others met death in a battle last Monday, were arrested today and brought to Cliftonville for questioning in connection with the fighting.

After quizzing the men, Prosecuting Attorney Wilken declared they were "most important witnesses" for the state. While he could not divulge the evidence they gave, he said, they were in close touch with the situation before the fight started and made some "telling revelations." They will be questioned again, after which it will be decided whether they are to be held in custody or released.

The inquest into the fight was adjourned until Friday morning. Deputy Sheriffs Irvin Mazingo and George Cree, who saved the mine powerhouse from destruction, told at the inquest of the part they took in the battle. Mazingo, who was wounded in the mouth, said he believed the death list would be increased when a complete search of the burned tipple was made.

A public funeral will be held tomorrow for Sheriff Duval. County officials will act as bearers, and while services are conducted at the home, all business establishments here will close.

The number of recovered dead in the battle was tonight brought to five when Deputy Sheriff Herb Allen located the body of a man who had been shot twice, in a field about half a mile from the spot where Sheriff Duval fell. The field is back of the mine and in the direction of the Washington pike.

The body was viewed by Coroner J. E. Walkshaw and brought to the morgue here. Twenty-one new arrests were made tonight in connection with the round-up of those suspected of having taken part in the fighting.

HAGUE CONFERENCE WILL CLOSE TODAY

Plenary Session to Receive Reports of Sub-Commissions; Mystery
Marks Proceedings

(By the Associated Press.)

The Hague, July 19.—Mystery marked The Hague proceedings today and the conference ended in an uncertain manner. After Maxim Litvinoff, head of the Soviet delegation, had proposed to submit to Moscow a recommendation to acknowledge pre-war debts and admit the general principle of compensation for foreign property, there was a temporary effort on the part of non-Russian delegates to create the impression that the Russians had yielded materially.

When the non-Russian delegates met in the afternoon, however, to examine Litvinoff's proposals further, there was decided objection to submitting these proposals to the various governments and an unwillingness to wait for seven days, as M. Litvinoff had suggested, for Moscow's action on the recommendations.

One of the results of this meeting was the adoption of a cryptic resolution introduced by Baron Azevazov of Italy, which was so puzzling that nobody but the delegates, and probably not all of them, could understand it. Then the non-Russian delegates decided to hold a final plenary meeting at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to receive the reports of the three sub-commissions and bring the conference to a final close.

BIG N. Y. FIRE UNDER CONTROL

Millions of Gallons of Water Poured Into Warehouse During
34-Hour Period

7-STORY WALL FALLS

Firemen Set Hose on Tripods and Withdraw to Safe Distance
as Debris Crashes

New York, July 19.—Bulging from expansion of great rolls of newspaper soaked with water, the seven-story wall of the Greenwich Village warehouse, which burst into flames yesterday morning, fell late this afternoon, piling debris five feet high in the flood pouring from the wrecked structure.

A great gallery of many thousands watched the collapse from a modern coliseum formed by neighboring roofs and fire escapes. Warned for hours by the bulging surface, firemen had set their hose on tripods and withdrawn to a safe distance. A water tower, partly buried under bricks, continued to shoot its stream after the crash came.

Three investigations are under way to determine the cause of the million dollar fire, still burning tonight, that caused the death of two firemen and injured 30 others. Acting Fire Chief "Smoky Joe" Martin declared that more water had been poured into the building than at any fire that ever had occurred in this city.

Fire Commissioner Drennan announced that although there had been no permit issued for such storage, the warehouse contained 38 cases of magnesium, the flash powder used by photographers. Mayor Hyman directed every city department to aid in the investigation.

"The Almighty Dollar."

"There are scoundrels who place money and profit above human life," the mayor said. "It's about time some of them went to jail. Too many honored citizens care too much for the almighty dollar."

Throughout the city, symbols of mourning will be displayed on firehouses on Friday and Saturday mornings during the funerals of Lieutenant John J. Schoppmeyer and Fireman James H. Malone, killed on the first day of the fire. Firemen from Chicago, now in New York for the World's Fair, will attend.

After 48 hours of the fighting, Acting Chief Martin tonight said the flames were under control. It was reported that there were still several "nests" of compartments on the upper floors filled with inflammable matter which were burning and which firemen were finding difficulty in reaching with hose lines.

One hundred and four families, who were ordered from their homes when the fire started, still were kept from them by the danger of the remaining walls of the building toppled over.

Spectacular Rochester Fire.

Rochester, July 19.—A spectacular fire that swept through a Main Street West block early this evening made more than half a dozen families homeless and drove a score of others to the street.

Several women and children, trapped on upper floors by the flames, were carried to the street nearly suffocated by the smoke. It is believed the property loss will reach nearly $20,000. The fire started from the explosion of an oil stove in the kitchen of one of the flats.

Persons attracted to the scene made some spectacular rescues of women, frantic with fear and almost overcome by smoke. A patrolman rescued a cripple in the building who had left his crutches in a front hall while he hebbled back to get some keys, by carrying him out bodily.

INDEMNITY QUESTION HELD IN SUSPENSE

No Developments Until Committee on Guarantees Presents
Report Saturday

(By the Associated Press.)

Paris, July 19.—The whole reparations question will probably be in suspense until Friday or Saturday, when the commission will begin its consideration of the report of the committee on guarantees, which has returned from Germany. Definite developments are not looked for in the meantime.

The committee will do some intensive work tomorrow and Friday in an endeavor to have its findings ready by Saturday. In official circles, the question is expected to be discussed and fully with the question, and it was this idea that prompted Premier Poincare to write a letter to the British ambassador at Paris, Lord Hardinge, pointing out the necessity of moving with the greatest care before the date of the forthcoming Franco-British meeting is fixed.

In reparations circles it is indicated that the question of instituting a most rigid control over German governmental finances will be one of the chief elements in the discussion of Germany's request for a moratorium. It is reliably reported that a difference of opinion exists in the commission on the question of extending control over Germany, even in the event that a moratorium is granted.

A majority of the members of the commission on guarantees are said to be opposed to strictly control over German finances on the ground that

WAS ODD-JOB MAN A DUKE?

Authorities of Two Continents
Puzzled Over Heritage of Eccentric Watchman

DEATH HOLDS SECRET

Masonic Apron Strengthens Theory
That He Was the Real
Duke of Grafton

(By the Associated Press.)

New York, July 19.—The body of an eccentric old night watchman and odd-job man, lying unclaimed on a marble slab in King's county morgue tonight, looked as a secret a heritage that authorities of two continents are seeking to solve.

Was Edward Euston, as he was known in the Brooklyn lodging house where the body was found, a lineal descendant of Charles II and the "black sheep" eldest son of the late Duke of Grafton—entitled to the vast estates and all the hereditaments now enjoyed by the second son of the late duke? Was he a member, at all, of the ancient royal family of Fitz Roy? Or was it merely coincidence that the man of mystery should have selected clippings dealing with the affairs of the Fitz Roes to cherish among his dearest possessions?

These are some of the questions the police, the British consul and the public administrator have been trying to clear up since they discovered beneath the tattered carpet of his room the treasured newspaper clippings.

Euston, who was night watchman for a steamship company and erstwhile applicant for odd jobs at Salvation Army headquarters, died several days ago after repulsing the proffered attentions of the landlady and scornful suggestions that a doctor be sent for.

A Peculiar Character.

Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, his landlady, said he always had been a more or less peculiar character. He had kept the door of his room always locked; he did his own cleaning and bed-making; he paid always with silver coins; he talked to no one; he exacted silence from her. And, finally, when he came to die, he had to be carried in his door to take the body away.

His death excited little comment until a detective found his treasure cache. The treasure consisted of a dime-a-week life insurance policy; "to assure me decent Christian burial," a photograph, obviously of the dead man, although taken years ago when his subject was in his prime, and wore the clothes of an English gentleman as one of the manor born; newspaper clippings, and a faded Masonic apron.

On one of the clippings regarding the present duke which Euston had pasted to the back of his photograph—the authorities began to build up the theory that the dead night watchman might have been the real Duke of Grafton. The theory was further strengthened, in the opinion of the detectives on the case, by the presence of the Masonic apron. Lord Euston, it was pointed out, stood high in Masonry and several times had come to America as the personal emissary of the late King Edward VII to attend Masonic gatherings.

Mrs. Moore furnished further corroboration when she told detectives that Euston had exacted a solemn promise from her not to discuss him in any way in the event of his death.

The only other request he ever made, she said, was that she tell no one who might inquire, anything as to his comings and goings.

He was known at the Brooklyn public library as an ardent peruser of English newspapers.

WOMAN SLAYER IS SILENT.

Los Angeles, July 19.—An admonition not to talk was imposed today upon Clara Phillips, alleged slayer of Mrs. Albert Meadows, by her attorneys. The latter said they had advised their client not to see anyone except her relatives unless the lawyers themselves were present.

Mrs. Phillips will appear to plead tomorrow in superior court. The attorneys said they expected to present a demurrer to the indictment and if this is granted, would enter a plea of not guilty.

ERIE SECTION MEN QUIT.

Saratoga, Pa., July 19.—Three hundred section hands on the Wyoming division of the Erie railroad affiliated with the Maintenance of Way union quit work yesterday in sympathy with striking shopmen.

This would have the effect of shifting to the commission's shoulders all the responsibility of the financial situation in Germany.

The directors of the Allied offices for the collection from Germany of pre-war commercial debts will meet in Paris on July 25 to consider the recent announcement that Germany intends to suspend payment of these debts. There is said to be 600,000,000 gold marks due this year

Policemen Authorized Today to Fire on Any Persons Who Attack Street Cars

Buffalo, July 19.—The most serious rioting since the street car strike began here 18 days ago, today resulted in a temporary suspension of service on one East Side line, and an appeal from the International Railway company for additional police protection.

The city council responded by authorizing Police Chief Burdett to swear in 140 additional patrolmen and "in a temporary suspension of service on one East Side line, and an appeal from the International Railway company for additional police protection."

The city council responded by authorizing Police Chief Burdett to swear in 140 additional patrolmen and "in a temporary suspension of service on one East Side line, and an appeal from the International Railway company for additional police protection."

Three mobsters and conductors brought here from Philadelphia and Boston were mobbed on Seneca street shortly after noon. Crews of other cars quit when the situation became menacing and officials of the International Railway company ordered a suspension of traffic on the line. Service was resumed at 3 p. m., each car being followed by an automobile carrying policemen armed with riot guns.

Minor disturbances were frequent along the Genesee, Sycamore and Seneca street lines, which also traverse the east side.

Public Patronizes Jitneys.

An uninterrupted service was maintained on the west side of the city during the day, but the cars registered scant patronage, the traveling public using the jitney service almost exclusively. The city, the jitney operators said, today will oppose whatever legal steps the street car company may take to drive the jitney buses out of service.

Chief Burdett announced tonight that policemen riding on the street cars tomorrow will carry riot guns and will be under orders to fire on any persons who attack the cars. Union officials were advised by Mayor Schwab tonight to warn the strikers of the serious consequences that will follow a resumption of the rioting.

It was said tonight that 12 strike-breakers had been treated for injuries at the emergency hospital fitted up in one of the barns of the street railway company. Several cars went into the barns 7 o'clock tonight, with every window broken and the sides dented as the result of the bombardment they had gone through.

Two hand grenades were thrown on the roof of the Cold Spring barns of the International Railway company in Main street shortly before midnight. Two big holes were torn in the roof, but no one was injured.

Police said that the grenades were thrown from a house adjacent to the barns which is occupied by two striking street car men. These men denied any knowledge of the attack on the barns.

Reports from the east side late tonight say that crowds are piling up barricades on the street car tracks to obstruct passage of the cars in the morning.

PROPOSED UNIFICATION OF STEEL CONCERNS DEFENDED

New York, July 19.—Proposed unification of the Federal Republic and Island steel companies would not disturb competition in the steel industry, Thomas L. Chadbourne, attorney promoting the merger, declared tonight in a statement commenting on his appearance in Washington before the federal trade commission, which is investigating the merger.

The output of the three companies, he said, is only seven and one-half per cent of the country's production, and the consolidation was decided upon to effect economy of operations and thereby reduce the cost differential "of from three to five dollars a ton now enjoyed by the United States Steel corporation."

BODIES OF TWO YOUNG BOYS FOUND IN GENESSEE RIVER

Rochester, July 19.—The bodies of Henry Miller, 12, and Carl Harster, 11, were recovered early this evening from the lower Genessee river at Hopewell's dock by morgue attendants.

The two boys disappeared mysteriously yesterday afternoon after going swimming. At 11 o'clock this morning, Wilber Miller, brother of one of the drowned boys, found the clothing of the two boys on the river bank.

Both boys were said to have been excellent swimmers.

Coroner Thomas A. Kilp had the bodies removed to the morgue and ordered an investigation.

FOURTH GAME FROM SIDNEY

Unadilla, July 19.—Jim Mahady's wonderful pitching, especially in the pinches, gave Unadilla today its fourth victory of the season over Sidney. Mahady fanned 10 men and was in command of the situation at every stage of the game. Kinnere twirled good ball for Sidney but gave four passes. Features of the game were the hitting of Byrnes, Keating and Baker and the fielding of Keating and Gilmore. Sidney won its only game of the season from Unadilla at Sidney last week.

The ball team figures inclusive of July 19 show that Scanton and Hatch are hitting above the 300 mark, with Alexander just two points short of that distinction. In the field, Wiltie and Thomas, both pitchers, are first and third, respectively, with Alexander second, he having taken part in 39 games played. The lists contain all who have played more than five games with the team.

Cincinnati, July 19.—The Giants used their hits to much better advantage than the Reds today and won the first game of the series, 5 to 2. Menez's single, Young's long triple to right, and a fielder's choice gave the visitors their first two runs in the second inning and they were never headed. The Reds threw away two chances to score in the early innings by poor judgment on the bases.

ALASKAN NATIVES MOURN KILBUCK

Gloom in the Far Northland Follows Death of Beloved Indian Missionary.

WILL NOT FORGET HIS WORK

From Kansas to Arctic John Henry Kilbuck Carried the Gospel, Saving Lives and Winning Love of Natives.

Juneau—There is gloom among the natives in Alaska today.

From Point Barrow—the farthest north—to Metlakatla and Juneau in the south; from the headwaters of the Kuskokwim and Yukon down to the sea, is traveling forth the word that "Kilbuck is dead." Everywhere the news permeates, there follows sadness. Grown men and women among the Eskimos and Indians grieve like children. All because the "most loved man beyond 54-40" is no more.

For more than four decades John Henry Kilbuck, Muncie Indian of the old Delaware nation that roamed over Pennsylvania before the days of Washington and William Penn, had been intimately associated with the Klunkits and Takus of southeastern Alaska, or the Eskimos and breed tribes around Point Barrow. With his pale-face wife he was guardian, counselor, spiritual guide and friend.

Will Not Forget Him.

But the country which John Kilbuck played such an important part in developing will not forget him. The thousands of reindeer that roam the tundras under the watchful eye of their native shepherds, will forever remind the natives of him. It was Kilbuck who, at the request of the United States government, introduced reindeer propagation in Alaska, and by so doing he banished the specter of famine that periodically wiped out entire tribes when the hard times came and the winters closed in before they were prepared.

Akjak and Bethel, both founded by the Moravian missionary, some day may grow into flourishing cities when Alaska comes into its own. And they will cherish his memory.

Doings of missionaries, as a rule, make rather tame reading. But the activities of John Kilbuck and his wife were not confined to strictly spiritual things.

Four different times did the Kilbucks go "below" with the intention of spending their declining years in the States. And four times they went back. The call was irresistible.

The last time—it was to have been different. With all the best intentions, accentuated by memories of past failures to keep good resolutions—the pioneer torchbearers of civilization resolved to spend their declining years near the homes of their forefathers—on the Chippewa Indian reservation town in Kansas.

Deep down in their hearts, however, they had a "hunch" that the North would win. It always had.

So the North Won Again.

In their little white and green cottage, nestled in the Chippewa hills and overlooking the placid Marais des Cygnes river in eastern Kansas the Kilbucks were waiting. Waiting for word that the break-up in the Yukon and Kuskokwim was about to begin. They had reached their decision.

"They need us. The influenza has reached Alaska. If it gets into the interior before we do nobody knows what will happen. Thousands may perish. Their deer, now numbering thousands, will be cast adrift over the tundras—prey to wolves and wild dogs and equally unscrupulous 'breeds'."

With the first word of the thaw they took a steamer out of Seattle. They arrived none too soon. Influenza already was taking its toll. But they did get there in time to save hundreds.

The Kilbucks took up their work where they had left off upon their departure for the States. They were just whipping things into shape and getting comfortably settled for the last chapter of their life's book when pneumonia and typhoid, diseases from which they had saved thousands of Uncle Sam's little Indian wards, struck home. In three days Kilbuck was dead.

It was back in 1885 that John Kilbuck and his white wife arrived in Alaska. He had just graduated from the Moravian Missionary school at Nazareth, Pa., where he had been sent by a Christian worker among the Kansas Indians.

It took years to gain the confidence of the Alaska natives, but patience and kindness finally won and now no game is better known or more beloved among the Alaska Indians or Eskimos than Kilbuck.

Musical Modernist.

"Did you know that you sang off the key when we were rendering 'The Star Spangled Banner.' 'I suspected it,' replied Senator Sorghum. 'I always want to sing the words of that song and I thought maybe my tune would pass without much notice, as a little jazz effect.'"

George Stallings says if he could get Norman McMillan back from the New York Yankees he would win a pennant with his Rochester team, but the Yankees won't let him go.

Pitcher Joe Finneran, who has been with Seattle and was for several years in the International league, has been purchased by the Galveston management from the Seattle club.

Fort Worth, says a Texas league correspondent, doesn't miss Topper Rigney at short, for Taveney plays as good a game at the position for the Panthers as Rigney ever did at his best.

NOTES of the DIAMOND
 Pitcher Seib seems to have come into his own with a vengeance.
 Babe Ruth doesn't know much Latin, but his motto is "Soc Et Tuum."
 The Glants' steam-roller continues to mow 'em down in the National league.
 "Casey" Stengel, on the bench until very recently, has been going fine for the Glants.
 The St. Paul club has the greatest bunch of castoff pitchers, young and old, in the minors.
 Manager Killifer of the Chicago Nationals, has released Victor Keene to the Toronto International league club.
 Rogers Hornsby, the star of the Cardinals, is the first National league player to cross the home plate 50 times.
 Johnny Mohardt, college star, shifted to Syracuse by the Detroit club, is making good with the willow and in the field.
 "Shucks" Pruett, the college pitcher now with the St. Louis Browns, looks as if he carried the makings of a big league star.
 Tom Sullivan, young pitcher who was beginning to show something with the Phillies, is out of it with a cracked leg.
 Count among the comeback pitchers, one Frank Bullet Miller, who is doing some fine work for the Boston Braves after a layoff of a year or more.
 With Leon Ames passing out Charley Hall of the St. Paul Saints is now the old man of the American association in point of pitching service.
 Oakland, though the league limit permits more, has been carrying but 17 players, the others on its roster being laid up with injuries of one sort or another.
 Lee King may not have acted as he should with the Phillies, but he has shown no "indifference" about getting his hits with Toledo in the American association.
 Gene McCann, Bridgeport manager, has added another Cuban to his list. The newcomer from the island is Ramon Herrera. His other Cubes is Jose Rodriguez.
 A Minneapolis third baseman is said to be suffering from sleeping sickness, but the percentage column indicates that few of his teammates have been caught napping.
 "Not failure but low aim is crime!" Because Babe Ruth is always trying to make home runs no one censures him for striking out oftener than most of his rival swatsmen.
 Leo Cotter, first baseman, sent back to Springfield in the Western association by the Chicago Cubs, may be with San Francisco in the Coast league next year if a deal can be arranged.
 In National league circles they are talking of Fred Keck, the youngster with the Reds, as a pitcher who may in time achieve more fame as an underhand pitcher than Carl Mays of the New York Yankees.
 Another danger is, when the four-batters finely balanced, sharply played games, the bleachers will continue to want their enthusiasm stirred by the freaks of the profession.
 A $100,000 minor leaguer may help the White Sox, then again he may not. Four $25,000 pastimers would cover more ground and have more chances.
 Young Stephenson seems to have landed a regular berth with the Cleveland Indians. He has done brilliant work since he was given a chance to show his wares.
 George Stallings says if he could get Norman McMillan back from the New York Yankees he would win a pennant with his Rochester team, but the Yankees won't let him go.
 Pitcher Joe Finneran, who has been with Seattle and was for several years in the International league, has been purchased by the Galveston management from the Seattle club.
 Fort Worth, says a Texas league correspondent, doesn't miss Topper Rigney at short, for Taveney plays as good a game at the position for the Panthers as Rigney ever did at his best.

Foster, Oregon.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for pains across the small of my back. They both came so badly that I could do my work only with the help of my husband. One day he saw the 'ad.' in our paper telling of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and he said, 'I am telling my friends what it has done for me and am sure it will do good for others. You can use this letter as a testimonial. I will stand up for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound any time.'—Mrs. Wm. J. Hanks, Foster, Oregon. Doing the housework for a family of seven is some task. If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out and irritable, or have other disagreeable ailments caused by some weakness, give Lydia E. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Constable. The evening was profitably spent in a discussion of the literature which had been circulated and delicious refreshments were served.

In Serious Accident.

On Wednesday last, as E. Comstock was returning home on a trip, driving a 1921 Buick, he had a serious accident on the state road between Gilbertsville and Mt. Upton. He had turned out to let a touring car pass and as he turned back into the road the rear wheel of the other car caught the hub of Comstock's left front wheel, upsetting the truck down a bank. Mr. Comstock was severely injured and it is feared that one or more ribs were cracked. The car was badly wrecked.

Highly-Esteemed Woman Dead.

The death of Mrs. Sarah Fagan, one of Sidney Center's most highly esteemed residents, occurred last Thursday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ward, at Bennettsville, where she had been spending the past few months. The cause of death was Bright's disease from which she had been a sufferer for years.

Funeral services were held Saturday at Bennettsville and interment was in the Gilbertsville cemetery. Mrs. Fagan, whose maiden name was Sarah Clinton, was born Nov. 10, 1840, and spent her earlier years in her native town, Gilbertsville. Her first husband was Smith Crawford who died about 20 years ago. A few years later she was united to George Fagan of this village and moved here from Unadilla Center. She was for many years a devoted member of the Methodist church and her many estimable qualities won her warm friends in this place who mourn her death.

A THREE DAY CRUISE.

The Foster man, who, with his wife is going to the woods without clothing, food or tools of any sort just to prove to himself that man is still able to wrest a living from nature, has been preceded in his experimenting by an accidental cruise.

A professor from the New York State College of Forestry was conducting some research work among the islands of Lake Champlain. He pulled his boat up on the bank of one island and started to explore, hunting for traces of white pine rust. When he was ready to leave he went back to the shore for his boat, only to find that it was gone. He was fairly certain he would be rescued within a few days, but in the meantime he had to face the problem of living. In his own words:

"I took stock of my resources. The food I had brought with me provided one meal. I knew that basswood buds are highly nutritious and gathered enough of them for a meal. Then I came on some gull's eggs, which are also wholesome. So I know I would never need to starve."

Had it been necessary, the professor could probably have fixed up a very presentable shelter for himself, but he admits willingly that such a life in the wild has its drawbacks. "I wasn't comfortable. I must admit that. But at the same time I existed. If the searching party had never found me I would have been able to gather enough food to live indefinitely."

Courage and determination, with ingenuity spurred by necessity, still appear to be all that man needs to enable him to maintain life without those comforts, conveniences and luxuries which the same qualities have enabled him to provide for himself in civilization.

MOTHER'S VACATION.

In lining up the family vacations has mother been overlooked? Father will get his two weeks, which he can spend loafing on the porch or picking on mother in the kitchen as suits his fancy, even if he cannot get away. The kids will visit and be visited, picnic and swim, so they are all fixed up. But what about mother?

Most of the other vacations will mean extra work for her. There will be the preparation of wardrobes, the providing of extra meals, and a dozen other additions to her already crowded schedule. Even if the entire family sit to camp or cottage it will mean little rest for her. As one woman expressed it, looking wearily out over the placid waters of a mountain lake, "They call this the 'simple life'—but all I can see is that the family eat more and it is harder to get."

Mother gets tired; she gets stale on her job. Just like other human beings she needs the heat. She needs a change just as much as anybody. If it cannot be arranged for her to leave home, how about seeing that she gets a vacation at home—a vacation from her labors, the result of the other members of the family assuming every possible bit of her cares and responsibilities, and a vacation from fault finding and incessant selfish demands upon her strength and courage?

For if home is the place "where you are treated best and grumbled most," too often mother is the girl who has the most soft stuff written about her and the most hard things said to her and the most hard work foisted upon her. Remember mother's vacation!

Locate Stolen Andes Bonds.

When a Boston jeweler noticed the spelling of a name "Frances Knapp" on a Liberty bond, and realized that "Frances" was a woman's name, he called a policeman and waited the arrest that followed, with that of five other men in New York and Boston, $5,000 of registered Liberty bonds stolen from the Andes bank on May 16, 1921, were recovered. Three of the six $1,000 bonds recovered were the property of the late Mrs. Frances Knapp of Andes. It is said that a similar amount of registered bonds owned by W. A. Ostrander, also of Andes, was among the loot recovered. More than $1,000,000 in stolen Liberty bonds was taken from the men.

"The Big Three" Picnic at Norwich.

The Chenango county grange, Daughters' league and the Farm and Home bureau of Chenango county announce a big picnic, which will be held Saturday, August 5, at the fair grounds at Norwich. Last year there were 6,000 persons in attendance and it is expected that these figures will be surpassed at the coming gathering. There will be baseball and other sport events and the speakers will be the Hon. John D. Clarke, representative in congress, and Rush F. Lewis, leading orator of the Daughters' league.

Hospital Superintendent Resigns.

Miss Emma Leary, superintendent of the Norwich Memorial hospital, has tendered her resignation, to become effective immediately. She has accepted the supervision of a large hospital near New York city. She has been in Norwich for the past three years and her departure is deeply regretted alike by her associates and those who have entered the hospital for treatment.

Donies Sale of Times-Union.

Martin H. Glynn, owner of the Times-Union, Albany, N. Y., denies that he has sold the Times-Union to William Randolph Hearst. Glynn, who has just returned to Paris, France, from a two weeks' tour of Switzerland, brands the report as "absolutely untrue."

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

When Maquet Took Dumas' Place.
M. Simon tells some remarkable stories of how the Dumas-Maquet collaboration worked. In 1849 "Le Vicomte de Bragelonne" was appearing serially in the Siecle. Dumas was then living at St. Germain, and one night his copy failed to arrive. Maquet, whose share in the work was known to the editor, was in Paris, and on receipt of an urgent message arrived at the newspaper office. Installed in the editor's room, and with a cup of bouillon and a glass of Bordeaux provided by way of refreshment, he rewrote the missing chapters and the paper was able to get to press at the usual time. Next day Dumas' missing manuscript arrived, having been picked up on the St. Germain road. According to a letter from the Siecle editor, quoted by M. Simon, it "did not differ by more than thirty words from the manuscript of Maquet."—[Manchester Guardian.]

Sand in the National Gears.

Has or has not the country's business been on the mend this year? No question it has. Not to the extent the exuberant optimist would have us all imagine along with him. Not as it could have made headway if there had been a more complete deflation from artificial war expansion. And not as would have been possible without so many and so serious strikes as handicap the country's productive powers.—[New York Herald.]

Mrs. Agneth's Criticism.

Margot Agneth is only one of the British persons of prominence who upon their return to England say cruel and nasty things about us. The effect of such comment might be overcome if Americans of prominence who go to England and address public gatherings were less disposed to indulge in fulsome praise of Great Britain and took more pains to talk about America and its virtues.—[Wilkes-Barre Record.]

Royal Endorsement of the Bowler.

What will become of the silk hat, plug or top hat now? It has always had many enemies. It has been denounced as ugly and uncomfortable. Here in America it is less and less worn, even on Sundays. Now no less a person than the King of England has turned against it. He has asked that bowlers—derbies in American speech—shall be worn at Goodwood this year instead of top hats. Even the tall white hat, barred here long ago, but still worn in England, is not favored, despite the fact that Ambassador Harvey has recently appeared in one.—[Philadelphia Inquirer.]

An Inferential Proposal.

A Galveston widow says that the latest proposal she has had was from a life guard, who said the more he saw of bathing beauties the more he admired housekeepers.—[Dallas News.]

The Wayfarer Returns.

Now is the season of returning to the old home town and trying to pick out the spots on Main street that were such important landmarks of youth.—[Watertown Times.]

Undesirable Repute.

Illinois is rapidly acquiring a reputation for lawlessness that will soon put it in a class by itself. What it seems to lack is old-fashioned American backbone.—[Punxsataway Spirit.]

Snapshots at Ostend.

One wonders what became of those clothes we sent the Belgians when one sees the pictures taken on the beach at Ostend.—[Life.]

It Only Himself.

If the careless driver endangered only himself perhaps the public would have less interest. But always the victim of his rashness is someone who is helpless to avert the accident.—[Watertown Standard.]

THE YEAR TO CAN PEACHES

Rare Combination of Abundant Fruit and Reasonably Priced Sugar.

Albany, July 19.—For the first time in years, housewives will this season have the combination of an abundance of fruit and of sugar at a reasonable price. According to the official estimates of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the State Department of Farms and Markets, the apple crop of the state, while considerably below the big yield of 1920, will be as large as the 1921 and 1919 crops combined. The quantity of peaches produced will probably be 70 per cent greater than the quantity harvested last year; and the peach crop is expected to be the biggest this state has had since 1917. In the principal peach section, extending east from the Niagara river, the trees are overloaded and growers have been thinning the fruit.

Plums, quinces, sweet and sour cherries, raspberries and blackberries, while not quite as promising as they were at this season in 1920, will probably produce better than in any other recent year. Grapes also are very promising, and in many parts of the state the yields of 1919 and 1920 may be equaled.

In commenting on these figures, Commissioner Berne A. Pyke pointed out that with prospects for good yields of practically all kinds of fruit, not only in this state, but in all parts of the country, it is probable that prices will be more reasonable than they have been for several years, and it would be well for housewives to can and preserve rather more fruit than they will need for this season, for it may be several years before there will again be such an abundance.

Some idea of the huge quantity of fruit which this state produces may be secured from the official estimates, which now place the probable fruit crops this year as follows: Apples, 28,000,000 bushels; peaches, 2,600,000 bushels; grapes, 70,000 tons. Combining these figures, and allowing for the large crops of berries, plums, cherries and quinces, the total fruit crop of the state will be close to one and four-fifths billion pounds. If this amount were evenly divided among the population, it would make 170 pounds, or nearly a half pound of fruit per day for each man, woman and child in the state. If you receive your share, you will have fruit of some sort with every meal.

TWENTY AND THIRTY YEARS AGO

Days of Old Recalled by Items Clipped from The Star Files.

July 20, 1902.

Harry Laskaris of this village is managing the refreshment stand at Otsego Lake pavilion in Cooperstown.

A family on Shaver hill near Meredith has been quarantined for small pox by Dr. Stanton Hendrick of Treadwell.

"Fatty" Blanchard of Oneonta pitched a masterful kama for Sidney against the Binghamton Stars yesterday. Sidney won, 7 to 6. Blanchard struck out 23 men and had four assists and three runs, one a homer. (N. B. Blanchard pitched here for the Mohawk Athletics in 1921.)

Oneonta surrounding territory was visited by unprecedented storms yesterday which did enormous damage to crops, highways and railroads. Two Binghamton men were killed when their locomotive was undermined near Harpersfield and a man, woman and child were drowned at Afton. There was considerable damage in Oneonta. Cellars near the D. & H. station were flooded and the Oneonta Milling company's bulkhead and flume, opposite the coal sheds of D. Whipple and Son, were practically destroyed.

UNIDENTIFIED PAYMENTS

Nearly Ten Thousand Dollars in Syracuse Internal Revenue Office—Nobody Knows Who Sent It.

Syracuse, July 19.—Because some folks in the Syracuse internal revenue district of 19 counties credit Collector Jesse W. Clarke and his assistants at the Syracuse headquarters and Oneonta, Binghamton, Utica and other zone offices with being mind readers, the Syracuse bureau today has $9,787 in unidentified accounts. Too many taxpayers in the district apparently labor under the delusion that the revenue attaches are personally acquainted with their business affairs; some evidently flatter themselves that they are the only ones doing business with Uncle Sam in certain fields.

Remittances pour into the revenue headquarters with no tax return to cover them. The revenue men have no way to trace the particular tax on liability and make the desired credit. The money is accepted, but the charge against the taxpayer still stands until extensive correspondence or personal field work has cleared the case.

The payments in the unidentified accounts column range from five cents upward. The largest is one of $9,300, an estate tax item, that the revenue men are now attempting to iron out.

"Here we have this demand for governmental economy, with taxpayers kicking on governmental expenditures, while at the same time, because of their carelessness, we may find it necessary to spend $25 straight out on a five-cent tax payment," said Collector Clarke today.

TITHERS AT SIDNEY GROVE.

Good Attendance at Opening Session of Conference Held This Week.

There was a good attendance at the Sidney camp grounds, where the interdenominational Tithers conference opened its week's sessions Monday. Other delegates and visitors arrived Tuesday and yesterday much interest is manifested in the program as carried out.

The first address of the week was delivered Monday evening by Rev. George S. Connell of Waverly, who spoke on "The Waverly Church as the Tithers' Plan." The address was illustrated by stereoscopic pictures and was in every way interesting and profitable.

On Tuesday the general theme was "The Scriptural and Historical Background of Tithing," and yesterday big interdenominational program was given, the day itself being denominated "Present Movement Day." Among the speakers not of the Methodist faith were Rev. L. E. Ford of the Johnson City Baptist church, who spoke on "The Progress of Tithing," the Baptist Church and Rev. J. A. Elmer Russell of the North Presbyterian church of Binghamton.

MR. WILBER'S FIRST TEACHER

Mrs. Frances L. Saxton Taught in Milford Village in 1851.

July 18, 1922.

Editor Star:

The recent death of George I. Wilber calls to my mind the fact that I was his first school teacher. I was born in Laurens in 1834 and in the summer of 1851 I taught in the district about a mile below Milford village; it was my first school and David Wilber and family were living in that district. George, then a little fellow, was one of my pupils. I was then known as Fanny Newell.

Very truly yours,

Frances L. Saxton,

7 High Street, Albany, N. Y.

(Mrs. Saxton is well known in this vicinity, where she resided until about 30 years ago. Her son, Harold N. Sax-ton, was formerly chief examiner for the State Public Service commission and now holds a responsible position with the State Tax commission. Ed. Star.)

LOCAL MENTION

—Oneonta Giants versus Stamford at Neahwa park at 3:30.
—An informal dance will be held this Friday evening, at the Country club.
—There was a rumor about the streets yesterday that the Stamford baseball team had disbanded and would not play here today. When questioned yesterday, Manager Breen denied the rumor absolutely and stated that the Oneonta-Stamford games would be played as scheduled.

STAMFORD'S STURDY STICKERS

Will Oppose Giants at Neahwa Park Today—Proceeds to Go to Auto Bus Fund—Frangley May Pitch.

In common with every other class of citizens the baseball fan has his hot letters and today is one of them. Stamford will be the attraction at Neahwa park, a fact sufficient to draw a large crowd, and in addition the proceeds of the game will go toward defraying the cost of the motor bus which conveys Bridwell and his tossers on their journey of conquest. Already a considerable number of tickets have been sold and the attendance should be large. Dr. Marx says: "If you can't go to the game, buy a ticket anyway and help the cause along."
Stamford has lost two of the three games played with Oneonta and is anxious to even up the series. Local fans need no further proof of the calibre of the team than their performance in the wonderful game here last Friday. Carroll, who shut out the Detroit Americans last Sunday with three hits, will probably be on the mound for Breen's athletes. Bridwell has not announced his twister but there is a possibility that Frangley, the new southpaw, may take the mound.

Scouts Inspect Fire Apparatus.

Members of Boy Scout troops two and four were given an opportunity last evening to inspect the city's fire fighting apparatus and to have the operation of the various pieces of equipment explained to them. Commissioner Biederman took the boys to fire headquarters where Assistant Chief Stapleton spent some time with them, explaining every detail of the fire alarm system and of the operation of the motor pump, steamer and other pieces of equipment. Perhaps the most enjoyable portion of the program was the lesson in sliding down the brass pole, the boys proving willing and apt pupils.

Business Women's Picnic.

Members of the Business Woman's club, to the number of thirty, met at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and repaired to Neahwa park where a most enjoyable picnic was held. The committee in charge of arrangements had carefully provided for every detail. Not the least among the beautiful refreshments of which everyone partook were the games of all kinds and "stunts" were on the program. It was a "fired" but happy group of girls who returned home later in the evening. Now the question seems to be: "When can we have another picnic?"

Goodyear Field Day.

The Goodyear Lake association met last evening at the camp of E. M. Roman to discuss ways and means for an even greater field day this year. Their plans are as yet indefinite, but they wish it understood that the field day, which is August 7th, is a public gala day, and that they will be pleased to entertain any who may desire to join in the fun.

ASSURED UNITED SUPPORT

Congressman John D. Clarke Making a Trip About the Country Wins His Party Unanimously Supporting His Re-nomination.

Congressman John D. Clarke, who is at his home at Frasers for a few weeks looking after the farm of 223 acres which he has there, was in the city yesterday for a few hours calling on friends and looking after his business. He had just been making a trip up through the Butternut Valley, calling on friends, being the guest of Merritt Bridges while in Morris and of Judge and Mrs. U. G. Welch at Edinburg.

Mr. Clarke is exceedingly gratified at the evidence that he finds of approval of his course in the house during the active session and in the assurance of support for re-nomination and re-election he is receiving from all Republicans and many independent. That he has displayed ability to think for himself and act with a definite and well established conviction of the right or wrong regardless of popular clamor, has gained for him the approval of many.
Indications are at least in Otsego and Delaware counties that there will be no candidate at the primaries against him and that he will receive practically a united vote.
Congressman Clarke was on their way to Little Falls, where for the week-end they will be guests of Congressman and Mrs. Snyder. Mr. Snyder is having a conference with leaders about his district at his home on Friday, and Mr. Clarke will be one of the guests present.

HOW THE TEAM STANDS

Giants Have Won 25 Games and Lost 14—Some Interesting Statistics.

To date the Oneonta Giants have won 25 games and lost 14, a percentage of .641. Seven of the defeats were by one score only and three went into extra innings. Three of the opponents have been blanked and the whitewash has been applied twice to Bridwell's men. Of the 23 games played in Oneonta, 17 have been won and 6 lost, while the team has won 8 and lost 8 while on the road.
But three teams, Unadilla, Walton and the Brooklyn Royal Giants, have won more than one game from Oneonta. Unadilla has four out of six games, Walton two out of three and the colored team took both contests. Oneonta has taken two games from the Ronackers, the D. & H. Generals, Norwich, the Syracuse Olympics and the Peekskill Athletic club of Brooklyn. Two out of three games have been won from Scranton, Elmira Athletics and Stamford. The series with E-J is tied at a game apiece. The Giants have won the only game with the following teams: Susquehanna, Archbald, Newark, the Philadelphia Colored Stars and Schenectady K. of C. Single games have been lost to Cortland and the Kingston Colonials.

Fly Creek Boy Wins Honors

An item taken from the Syracuse Herald July 16th, has the following to say of John Hopkins of Fly Creek. Among the Syracuse men in camp at Plattsburgh barracks, John Hopkins of Fly Creek had the most notable record of achievement. He is a member of the Sigma Beta fraternity, a cadet major in the R. O. T. C. and a varsity high hurdler. During his stay at camp he has occupied all of the highest student offices. He has also the distinction of winning the most medals of any man in camp. These awards include a medal as a pistol marksman, as an expert rifleman, as a member of the cadet rifle team in the intercollegiate match, and an award for making the highest score at rapid fire in the record practice in rifle shooting out of a field of 220 cadets.

Suspended Boy's Sentence.

In city court yesterday Judge Huntington suspended the sentence to the State Industrial school which he had imposed on Tuesday on Frank Dagonis, 14 years old, and paroled the boy for three months in the custody of Nicholas Rizzo. The lad was arrested for inducing Louis Bertuzzi, 10, to steal money from his father.

CHAUTAUQUA CREW ARRIVES

Big Tent Will Be Erected Today—Superintendent Tox Here—Thirty Tickets Yet Available.

Thirty more Chautauqua tickets are yet available and may be obtained today, as long as they last, at Goldthwaite's or Reynolds' book-stores, the Chamber of Commerce office, or at the Rowe Novelty shop. After these are sold, adult season tickets for the six-day course will be advanced in price from $2.25 to $3. Reserved tickets may be obtained tomorrow morning at Goldthwaite's book-store between 10 and 11 o'clock. Tickets for the Junior Chautauqua will not be advanced in price and may be obtained today at the above named places, or at Goldthwaite's or the Chautauqua tent in Wilber Park tomorrow.

Superintendent Tox arrived last evening and will take charge of the final arrangements for the Chautauqua program, which opens tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The program for the evening of next week, Nell R. Conant, the property man, arrived last evening, also with his crew, which will put in order the big tent in the park.

CONFERENCE TODAY.

Committee on Pony Farm Crossing to Meet Commissioner Sisson.
Chairman Arthur H. Brownell and Hon. LaVerne P. Butts of the special committee of the Chamber of Commerce on the Pony farm crossing, accompanied by Assemblyman J. C. Smith and Senator Bloomfield and Supervisor Frank T. Tier of the town of Oneonta, go to Albany today, leaving this city at 8 o'clock, to confer with Commissioner Sisson of the state highway department relative to the elimination of the Pony farm crossing.

This is one of the most dangerous crossings in this section and there is a widespread belief that some step should be taken to eliminate it. The best method and the one most likely to be speedily brought presents some problems to determine but it is understood that the committee will present a request to the commissioner to take steps to have the public service commission require an overhead bridge east of the crossing constructed. This would permit closing the crossing entirely which is the end sought. It is doubted if any other step would result in the closing of the grade crossing, owing to the fact that there some 14 farms or residences in the territory between the two crossings now on the state road and it may be difficult to secure any change in the route.

A Certain Rich Man.

Many who have read William Allen White's masterpiece, "A Certain Rich Man," will rejoice that the film version of the story will be presented at the Strand theatre today and tomorrow. The story, which concerns the life of a man who thought the acquisition of riches the only thing in existence, has an appeal which the motion picture version develops in a manner that makes it one of the best screen productions ever made. It is a wonderful story, wonderfully told and wonderfully filmed.

Boy Scouts Baseball Team.

The Boy Scouts baseball team of this city will practice at White park diamond this morning at 8 o'clock. All boys are requested to report. A team for the younger boys will be organized.

Dr. C. I. Biederman, Scoutmaster.

Davenport Old Home Day.

Friday, August 11, has been set for the day for Davenport's old home day. Committees have been appointed and everybody is looking forward to that date for one of pleasure. Congressman J. D. Clarke has promised to be present as one of the speakers.

Births.

Born, July 15, to Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Kopf, of 3 Rose avenue, a son.

WILL ANSWER LOREE LETTER

Strikers' Fatigue Statement of Their Position Will Be Made Soon—Grand Lodge Official Here Tonight.

Although strike officials intimated that an answer would be made in the near future to President Loree's letter which appeared as an advertisement in The Star of yesterday, they would give out no statement last evening. It is possible that the matter will be taken up at the joint meeting of the Shop Crafts to be held in strike headquarters at 7:30 o'clock tonight at which time a Grand Lodge representative will be present.
The strike officials claim that their ranks are still solid and that they are satisfied with the situation. They claim that strike breakers are leaving the company's employ every day. Railroad officials do not deny occasional desertions from their ranks of workmen but state that the men who leave are of the type who quit any job as soon as they have earned a little money and that their places are being filled without difficulty.

MRS. OLESEN COOKS, SCRUBS, DARNES; AND FIGHTS FOR SEAT IN SENATE

By Roy Gibbons.

Cloquet, Minn., July 12.—The Democratic nominee for United States senator from Minnesota cooks the best ham and cabbage I ever tasted. To make election certain all she has to do is to invite the voters to dinner.

That's the kind of a woman Mrs. Anna Dickie Olesen is. And up here they say she's as good a politician as she is a cook.

She's the first woman to receive a senatorial nomination from a major party, and her friends are willing to bet this year's crop and the family silver that she'll be the first woman to sit in the Senate at Washington.

"I'm running because I see great wrongs inflicted on the plain people," she said. "I'm a plain person myself."

Her Own Housekeeper.

She is. She keeps house, does the family washing herself, goes to market, darns her husband's socks, and makes her own clothes and the clothes of her 15-year-old daughter, Mary Winifred.

Her husband is Peter Olesen, superintendent of the Cloquet schools. She met him when he came to her door as a book agent—and she says she loved him at first sight.

Mrs. Olesen was born in a log cabin on a farm at Cordova, Minn. She is 37 and tiny; she weighs 100 pounds. Her hair is brown and her eyes gray. Poverty and sorrow have left their print in her face, which even her cheery smile doesn't hide.

"Half my heart lies in the cemetery where by first born is buried," she said.

"My jewels are by little daughter and my husband. It is to help them and others like them—for we are all of one big family—that I want to go to the Senate."

Live in Double House.

The Olesens live in a five-room half of a double house, upstairs.

"We pay $30 a month," she said. "Rents are terrible up here."

She meant it, too. She said her girlhood's chief fear was that the mortgage on the farm would be foreclosed. Everything that the Olesens have now was bought with money saved penny by penny. In her campaign she spent less than $500, and it was saved out of the household money.

Mrs. Olesen says she has three vices—lemon pop, chewing gum and tea.

"When I get to Washington," she says, "most likely I'll be a social failure. I simply don't play cards, though I've no objection to them. And 10 o'clock is the latest I like to be up."

Student of the Bible.

Mrs. Olesen went to high school and had one year of university work, but she says most of her education came from studying the Bible. She carries it on her campaign tours.

Mrs. Olesen came into prominence during the war by lecturing before Minnesota women's organizations. She has been vice president of the Minnesota Federation of Women's clubs and was a delegate to the Democratic national convention at San Francisco in 1920.

"Women ought to vote with their consciences—they don't need their own political party," she says. "Some day we shall have a woman president."

Here is her platform:

First and foremost I shall represent my state in the United States senate as unselfishly and humanly as possible. No one person can bring about the millennium or perfect Utopian conditions.

I will represent no group, no class, no special interest. The time has come for a people's congress to declare in all legislation for a people's government, guarding the interests of all.

I believe that the treasury of the United States should be guarded as carefully as I protect the small earnings of myself and husband in our home.

I will introduce legislation patterned after the farmer loan bill, to subsidize property owners through federal aid and make America a nation of home owners freed from rent nightmares.

I will fight with all the strength in me to see that human rights are made superior to property rights, and I will vote against every power, person and influence dangerous to the perpetuity of free government.

I will especially seek a reopening of the Newberry case, which I consider a travesty on our American ideals.

I shall unceasingly work to bring about these things about:

Abolition of child labor.

Stimulation of European trade.

Repeal of the Esch-Cummings bill.

Construction of the St. Lawrence-to-the-Sea highway.

Reduction of the present tariff bill.

Restraint on the leasing of public oil lands to private monopolies.

Careful conservation of America's natural resources for future generations.

Endorsement of the full program of the League of Women Voters for women and children.

First and foremost I am a woman.

After that I am a politician. I will do duty to my country as I would to my children. I will mother it.

MARRIAGES.

Weslar-Simmers.

John J. Weslar of Fort Sill Oklahoma, and Mrs. Ina Simmers of the town of Oneonta, were married July 19th, 1922, at the Free Baptist parsonage, West Oneonta, by Rev. M. C. Minor, D. D. The parties were unattended.

Mr. and Mrs. Weslar will soon leave for Fort Sill to make that their future home, where Mr. Weslar is a soldier in the United States army. They go with the very best wishes of their many friends.

EVERY HOME MAY HAVE WATER

Novel Demonstration Truck From State College, Will Visit Nine Communities in Otsego County.

How every farm home may have running water in the kitchen, is the message which a novel demonstration, to be sent out from the State College of Agriculture, will carry to nine communities in Otsego county from July 24 to July 28, according to an announcement made yesterday by County Agent Barlow. The schedule of places and dates for the meetings in this county is as follows:

July 24, 2 p. m., Foote's garage, Otsego.
July 25, 10 a. m., James Ferguson estate, Milford Center.
July 25, 2 p. m., Lena public hall, Lena.
July 26, 10 a. m., Maccabees hall, South Valley.
July 26, 2 p. m., Floyd S. Wright, Westford.
July 27, 10 a. m., Karl Green, Westville.
July 27, 2 p. m., George Beadle, Whig Corners.
July 28, 10 a. m., The Annex, Burlington Plaza.
July 28, 2 p. m., Harold Gates, Unadilla Forks.

This project is not wholly new, as a similar demonstration went on tour the summer of 1920. While it was considered most successful, it was not sent out last summer on account of a shortage of help at the college. In the meantime, the members of the staff of the department of rural engineering have added some new features, and the methods of erecting the equipment have been simplified. Now it is felt that the demonstration is even better arranged, not only for instruction purposes, but also for rapid setting up and taking down, than it was in 1920.

Farm Bureau Make Plans.

The demonstrations will be staged under the auspices of the county farm and home bureaus. The successive steps in the demonstration are so worked out as to indicate clearly the possibility of starting in a small way with the simplest equipment, and adding improvements from time to time without discarding any of the equipment already installed. The first step in setting up the demonstration is the erection of an upright panel and narrow floor, to represent the sidewalk and the floor of a kitchen. Then a sink and simple pitcher pump are installed. When this has been demonstrated, a force pump is substituted for the other and an overhead storage tank is shown. The last step in most of the demonstrations will be the installation of a hot water front such as is used in a kitchen stove, and connections made to a tank. Where it seems advisable, the manner of putting in an indoor toilet may also be shown.

EX-MINISTER DESERTS WIFE

Xenia, O., July 19. — Rev. W. W. Culp, former Spring Valley minister, who eloped with Miss Esther Hughes, 18, a boarder at the Culp home, today pleaded guilty to deserting his wife in probate court, and was sentenced to one year in the workhouse and to pay a fine of $500.

The mother of Rev. Culp's nine small children forgave her erring husband after he had been sentenced. Entering the room where she was, he threw his arms around her and pleaded for forgiveness. "I forgive you," was all she was heard to say.

NOTE IN BOTTLE ON ICE

Placed on Iceberg 50 Years Ago, Message Just Comes to Light.

Placed on an iceberg on the coast of Franz Joseph Land in the Arctic nearly fifty years ago by the Austrian expedition which discovered that territory, a bottle containing a message in the handwriting of the leader, Karl Weyprecht, has just reached Vienna, according to the London Daily Mail correspondent.

After being imprisoned in the ice two years Weyprecht decided that the ship Admiral Tegetthoff must be abandoned, and before the party set out on their hazardous journey in three small boats this bottle and its message addressed to the Austrian government was placed on a berg so that if the party perished news of their fate might possibly reach Austria. The bottle was found last year on the coast of Nova Zembla by a Norwegian exploring party and has now been sent to the president of the Austrian Geographical society.

Only one survivor of the party remains alive, Vice Admiral Brosch, who resides at Graz. He states that the commander and other officers made four copies of the letter, which were each signed by Weyprecht. They were placed in separate bottles and on different bergs. The copy found happens to be the one written entirely by the leader.

His Business Secret.

"Kindly inform the court how you managed to keep your credit open," was demanded during a trial for bankruptcy. "Certainly," replied the defendant, "but allow me to suggest that I impart this information behind closed doors. There are several of my competitors present, and I have no desire to teach them the secret."

"Luck."

Luck is generally described as something that happens seemingly by chance. It may be an event, either good or evil, which affects the interests or happenings of an individual, but this happening is entirely casual. "Lucky," however, carries the idea of good luck only.

WARNING TO MEN AND WOMEN OF AMERICA ISSUED

"This Nation Will Decay and Finally Perish When Homes Cease to Revere God," Episcopal Joint Commission Declares

New York, July 19. — Uttering a "solemn warning to the men and women of America," that "this nation will decay and finally perish when American homes cease to revere God," the report of the Episcopal Commission on Home and Family Life, which will be presented to the triennial general convention of the Episcopal church meeting in Portland, Oregon, September 6, next, was made public today.

"Advanced culture did not save past civilizations, did not prevent Germany plunging into a gulf of infamy. Upon America's consecration to God depends her fate," says the report, which contains an exhaustive study of social and industrial conditions in the United States with particular reference to home life.

The commission was appointed by the Episcopal general convention six years ago, and includes in its personnel some of the most distinguished of the bishops, clerical and lay members of the church. Among other subjects which are frankly treated are those of marriage, divorce and birth control. The report contains a strong recommendation against the latter. Rev. Charles Noyes Tyndell, S. T. D., of Williamsport, Pa., secretary of the commission in transmitting the report, says that the whole effort of the commission has been to present to the country a vital message in as concise form as possible.

"Even a cursory glance at conditions in the average American home reveals evidence sufficient to warrant the most careful study of those influences now affecting these homes from the standpoint of morals and religion," the report continues. "The attitude toward youth, even more than the attitude of the youth, will scarcely bear serious scrutiny."

"We touch the root of our family problem when we point to the lack of religion in the home. It is paralyzing to think of the average American family going on from the rising to the retiring hour as if God had no existence. Sunday is a day for extra sleep, motoring, Sunday papers in many volumes, comic supplements, if American children are not to be taught of God in the schools and at home, named in the home, what can we expect but that at this moment the United States is actually developing into a non-Christian nation?"

Domestic Life in America.

Touching upon domestic life in America, the report says: "Where family life is dishonored, wedding unfaithfulness lightly regarded, parental responsibility neglected, filial respect and obedience slighted, there, we may be sure, society is rotten at the core. We tremble for the future of a state or nation where lax theories concerning domestic life gain ground. Even laxer practices will certainly prevail."

"The remedy for the frightful dissolution of the marriage tie going on in America and its inevitable consequence of race suicide is to be found in Christian training alone. Remedial legislation while imposing difficulties in the way of easy annulment does not go to the root of the evil. It attacks many outward symptoms of the disease and is of undoubted value, but it does not destroy the germ of the evil or cure it at its source."

"Boys and girls must be taught as early as possible that the chief purpose of marriage is the perpetuation of the race, involving the begetting and education of children for the work of the world. Marriage is a high and holy vocation because the married pair are cooperating with the creator in the continuance of the human race."

"This commission heartily endorses the warning uttered by the great Lambeth conference of bishops, gathered from all over the world in London in 1920, against the practice of means for the avoidance of conception as involving grave dangers to physical health as well as moral innocence, and threatening the future of the human race. We make our own the words of the conference committee, as applying in particular to the United States."

The report is signed by Rt. Rev. William H. Moreland, D. D., bishop of Sacramento, who is chairman of the commission; Rt. Rev. Sidney Catlin Partridge, D. D., bishop of West Missouri; Rt. Rev. David Lincoln Ferris, D. D., bishop of Western New York; Rt. Rev. Walter Taylor Sumner, D. D., bishop of Oregon; Rt. Rev. Charles Fiske, D. D., bishop of Central New York; Rt. Rev. John C. Ward, bishop of Erie; Rev. J. H. Mellish of Brooklyn, Rev. Edwin S. Lane of Los Angeles, Rev. E. S. Travers, D. D., of Pittsburgh; Robert A. Woods, Clinton Rogers Woodruff, James M. Bull and Frank Splitter.

The Wrong Occupation.

"You discharged your assistant?" "Yes," said the magician. "He never had anything when I wanted it. If I started to manipulate a bowl of goldfish, he'd hand me a net to catch invisible pigeons out of the air. When I announced that I would do a few card tricks, he'd saunter up with a billiard cue. If I'd known he'd been a plumber's helper I never would have hired him."

Much Ado About Trifles.

Two public men in Washington were one day talking of the traits of a certain member of congress, who has a way of permitting himself to get "all hot up" over trifles and who generally makes a great to-do with respect to the accomplishment of small things. "Yes, sir," observed one of the men first mentioned, "that chap invariably hitches a Corlies excels to a gimlet."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Feelings and Principles.

Feelings come and go like light troops following the victory of the present; but principles, like troops of the line, are undisturbed, and stand fast.—Richter.

CAPITAL'S PRETTIEST CHILD

Many people who have visited the exhibit of photographs of Washington's beautiful children in the National museum declare this child to be the most beautiful of all. It is Margaret Merry, baby daughter of Mrs. W. T. Merry.

About half of the Guard will open the annual encampment at Mount Gretna on Saturday, to be followed two weeks later by the other half. The 176th field artillery regiment of Pittsburgh is in camp at Tobyhanna, in the northeastern part of the state, and will be succeeded next Saturday by Philadelphia artillery. Encampment plans were made months ago.
